A message from Superintendent Wilson

Ahead of this year's bonfire period I'd like to highlight the important role we can all play in ensuring the safety and wellbeing of Edinburgh's communities.

Fireworks should be a time of celebration and enjoyment for families. I would ask that you review the short video and the content available at the following link created by independent charity Crimestoppers' youth service Fearless, which provides clear, informative, and supportive advice to keep each other safe across this period.

Thank you for your time and continued support.
